

Calculation of Lease Charges

1. The purchase price shall be the Lessor's generally available price for the equipment increases announced between the date of order and the date of delivery. If the price is lower than the price in effect at the time of the order, the lower price shall be effective.

2. If the Lessor's price for on-order equipment is lower than the price for the equipment scheduled in the attached equipment schedule, the lower price shall be effective for the calculation of the monthly lease charge.

Price Protection Period

(a) Prices for on-order equipment shall be subject to all price increases announced to the date of order. If the price is lower than the price in effect at the time of the order, the lower price shall be effective for the calculation of the price of the equipment.

(b) If Supplier's price for on-order equipment is lower than the price for the equipment scheduled in the attached equipment schedule, the lower price shall be effective for the calculation of the monthly lease charge.

(c) The term "Supplier's price" shall mean the price for the equipment under terms of the Supplier's standard Purchase Agreement, exclusive of taxes and freight.

(d) Customer's price shall be the Supplier's price (exclusive of taxes based on the Supplier's price) for the equipment scheduled in the attached equipment schedule.

shall be the Lessor's generally available price for the equipment increases announced between the date of order and the date of delivery. If the price is lower than the price in effect at the time of the order, the lower price shall be effective.

is lower for any on-order equipment than the price for the equipment scheduled in the attached equipment schedule, the lower price shall be effective for the calculation of the monthly lease charge.

st and shall be subject to all price increases announced to the date of order. If the price is lower than the price in effect at the time of the order, the lower price shall be effective for the calculation of the price of the equipment.

date of installation is lower than the price for the equipment scheduled in the attached equipment schedule, the Customer shall be entitled to a refund of the difference between the price in effect at the time of the order and the price in effect at the time of installation.

sales of any hardware under terms of the Supplier's standard Purchase Agreement, exclusive of taxes and freight.

Supplier (exclusive of taxes based on the Supplier's price) for the equipment scheduled in the attached equipment schedule.